Thetis Pharmaceuticals is a drug development company that is advancing TP101, a novel, first-line therapy for type 2 diabetes. TP101 is a new molecular entity that chemically combines metformin, the standard of care in type 2 diabetes, with the principal component from omega-3 polyunsaturated fatty acids. TP101 uniquely targets both glycemic and lipid control in diabetes patients and, for the first time, offers prospects for addressing the high incidence of cardiovascular complications, a major risk factor in type 2 diabetic and prediabetic patients. The company expects to begin clinical studies with TP101 in 2012.
